Overview

The Taught Masters in Public History and Cultural Heritage at Trinity College Dublin, the University of Dublin is one of 7 M.Phil. programmes delivered by academic staff in the School of Histories and Humanities. It is designed to give its students a thorough grounding in public history and to provide them with a unique preparation for the management of cultural heritage.

We define ‘Public history’ and ‘Cultural heritage’ broadly: the programme will involve the study of cultural memory, its construction, reception and loss, and of the public status of history in modern society. It will examine the political issues surrounding public commemoration and ‘sites of memory’, and the role of museums, galleries and the media in shaping public perceptions of the past. And it will survey the more concrete questions involved in the conservation, presentation and communication of the physical heritage of past cultures, particularly where interpretation and meaning are contested.

The course has been designed to act as a bridge between Humanities disciplines in the university and the professional and creative concerns of cultural institutions. It exploits the diversity of relevant research expertise across the disciplines in the TCD Schools of Histories & Humanities and of Languages, Literatures & Cultural Studies, and draws on the strengths of the Trinity College Library and of nearby cultural institutions who are collaborating in the programme.

Partnering institutions participating in teaching and the internships programme this year are the Dublin City Gallery: Hugh Lane, the Dublin City Library and Archive, the National Archives of Ireland, the National Gallery of Ireland, the National Library of Ireland, St Patrick’s Cathedral, Little Museum of Dublin, Marsh’s Library, Dublin Castle, Worth Library, Lourdes Youth and Community Services, Glasnevin Trust, and the National Museum of Ireland.

The course is full-time for the duration of one calendar year, commencing in September, and concluding the following September.

Aims

- To provide students with a critical awareness of key issues and questions associated with Public History and Cultural Heritage
- To offer students a firm foundation in the research process
- To train students in the analysis and the presentation of their research findings
- To provide an introduction to the methodological challenges of advanced study and research at postgraduate level

Each module within the degree programme introduces students to a defined theme or problem within the ambit of the programme, providing a tightly focused and in-depth introduction to a range of case studies, sources, interpretative problems and current debates. Through exploring these issues, approaches and methodologies, the M.Phil in Public History and Cultural Heritage is designed to equip students with both the analytical and the practical skills required for advanced study and independent historical research.

Graduates of the course will be well placed to pursue a multiplicity of career pathways in the museum and cultural sector, whether as curators, collection managers, education officers, or media and public relations specialists. For those already working in these sectors it will enrich their knowledge and skills, stimulate lateral thinking and act as a spur to innovation.

Learning outcomes

On successful completion of this M.Phil. programme students should be able to:

- Demonstrate a detailed understanding of the principal issues surrounding Public History and Cultural Heritage
- Engage with theoretical and critical approaches, and to apply them to the study of Public History and Cultural Heritage
- Critically analyse relevant source material
- Conceive of and carry out a scholarly research project, and write up an analysis of research results
- Understand the potential of digitization to transform the public’s engagement with history

For all graduates of the course, there is the possibility of proceeding to a doctoral research project in one of the thematic strands. It is also our hope that graduates of this course will be able to contribute innovative and creative responses to the challenge of public commemoration of contested history.

General requirements

Students are expected to attend all elements of the M.Phil. programme.

To be awarded the M.Phil. degree, students must have achieved an overall satisfactory result in each part of the assessments, i.e. in the assignments for the coursework component and in the dissertation.

Students must pass all taught elements (50%) before being permitted to submit the dissertation. Any assignment that is not submitted will be graded as 0 (zero). Late submission of assignments, without permission from the Programme Coordinator, or without a medical certificate in the event of illness, will be graded as 0%. This is to ensure fairness to those who do not avail of extra time to complete their work. We recognize that from time to time there are unforeseen circumstances and genuine cases will be considered sympathetically if contact is maintained with the course tutor and/or Programme Coordinator. Exemptions will be granted only in exceptional circumstances, and only with the agreement of the Executive Committee of the History Department, and the Dean of Graduate Studies.

Essay submission
All coursework should be typed or word-processed. Pages should be single-sided and numbered consecutively, double-spaced with generous left- and right-hand margins. Font type should be sans-serif with Calibri preferred. Font size should be 12 point with 10 point footnotes. Quotations longer than three lines should be separated from the text and indented. An M.Phil. Coursework Submission Form must be attached to all essays submitted.

All students must submit their module essays in hard copy to the relevant essay box in the corridor outside the Department of History office (Room C3133, Arts Building) and in electronic form to the School of Histories and Humanities at pghishum@tcd.ie by the deadlines specified by module lecturers for each module.

Regulatory notification
Please note that in the event of any conflict or inconsistency between the general academic regulations for graduate studies and higher degrees in the University of Dublin Calendar (http://www.tcd.ie/calendar/) and this handbook, the provisions of the general regulations shall prevail.

Credit System (ECTS)
The ECTS is an academic credit transfer and accumulation system representing the student workload required to achieve the specified objectives of a study programme. The ECTS weighting for a module is a measure of the student input or workload required for that module, based on factors such as the number of contact hours, the number and length of written or verbally presented assessment exercises, class preparation and private study time, laboratory classes, examinations, clinical attendance, professional training placements, and so on as appropriate. There is no intrinsic relationship between the credit volume of a module and its level of difficulty.

In College, 1 ECTS unit is defined as 20-25 hours of student input so a 10-credit module will be designed to require 200-250 hours of student input including class contact time and assessments.

The College norm for full-time study over one academic year at Masters Level is 90 credits.

ECTS credits are awarded to a student only upon successful completion of the course year.
The M.Phil. consists of five compulsory modules and two taught module options which students must attend.

PHCH students are encouraged to sign up to the main international Public History mailing list at http://www.h-net.org/~public/ and to keep an eye on updated events at www.ncph.org

HH7010 Dissertation (Public History)
Weighting: 30 ECTS
Coordinator: Programme Coordinator
Teaching Staff: Students will be assigned a member of TCD staff to supervise their research. Supervisors will be selected as appropriate to the subject of the dissertation.

Aims
The aim of the dissertation is to enable students to devise, develop and complete an original research project in a defined time frame which draws on the insights, skills and knowledge acquired during their study on the M.Phil. programme. While the dissertation process serves both developmental and scholarly purposes, the completed work will be assessed in terms of its scholarly rigour and its contribution to knowledge. Students must satisfy all of the requirements of their programme to proceed to the dissertation module. Dissertations should be between 12,000 and 15,000 words in length and must be submitted by the date specified in the programme handbook.

Learning Outcomes
On successful completion of the module students should be able to:

- Devise, develop and complete a substantial, intellectually challenging and independent research project relating to their field of study
- Identify, access and interpret appropriate source materials, methods, concepts and terminology in the light of existing scholarship
- Develop a coherent and clearly structured argument that engages with original sources and interpretative issues in a critically informed and constructive manner
- Relate the specifics of their research topic to wider issues and debates within their discipline
- Demonstrate project management skills
- To progress to the dissertation, students must satisfactorily complete all required work in all modules.

Students who fail either to submit the dissertations by the deadline, or to achieve a satisfactory assessment for the dissertation will be eligible for the award of a Postgraduate Diploma. Students who complete all requisite course work and other requirements, and who obtain in the elective taught modules an aggregate mark of less than 50%, will not be permitted to proceed to the dissertation stage but will be required to re-submit coursework over the summer to qualify for the award of the Postgraduate Diploma in Public History and Cultural Heritage.

Students wishing to do further postgraduate work within the department (for which application must be made) should normally be required to achieve a mark of 65% in the dissertation and an average of at least 60% in the taught courses or directed reading modules.

Dissertation requirements
Students are required to submit a dissertation of between 12,000 and 15,000 words on a topic of their choice.

There are 3 requirements that must be completed:

1. Proposal
2. Supervision
3. Presentation

1. Proposal
Students will be required to develop and refine proposals by 7th November 2019. They should consult with members of staff for assistance. They will be asked to make class presentations of their dissertation proposals and to provide constructive criticisms of the dissertation proposals of fellow students.

Each student is required to submit a 300-word proposal to the Departmental Office by the November 7th 2019. This should include a statement of the problem to be studied and methodological approach, an outline structure, a description of the primary sources used, and a brief description of the secondary literature to be consulted.

It is essential to discuss your ideas with the Programme Coordinator or another member of staff before the Christmas break. The final draft of this proposal incorporating all feedback should be submitted no later 7 January 2018.

2. Supervision
Supervisors will be assigned at the beginning of Hilary Term according to the area of research selected by the student. They will be assigned from the Department of History, or, if circumstances warrant, from other Departments in the School of Histories and Humanities, according to available expertise.

Supervisors will give subject-specific guidance both on subject matter and on the process of completing a research project in a timely and scholarly manner appropriate to the discipline. They will discuss ideas with you at the outset of your project and read and offer feedback on written work (i.e. complete draft chapters) but your thesis is not a collaborative project and must represent your own work. A timetable for the submission of draft chapters should be established with the supervisor and students will be expected to meet the deadlines they have agreed.
Formal supervision (i.e. consultation with a supervisor by appointment, and the reading of and provision of feedback on written work) will be available to students up until the end of statutory term, i.e. 30th June. Written work should be presented in an appropriate manner well in advance of a supervision meeting to allow the supervisor adequate time to read and reflect on submitted work. Remember that a supervisor cannot be expected to offer meaningful comment on work that he or she has just received. Please note that the final deadline for the submission of written work to supervisors for feedback is Friday 2 weeks before 30th June.

Students should therefore expect to have submitted a substantial portion of the dissertation to their supervisor by the final deadline for the submission of dissertation work to supervisors. From the end of statutory term, students will be expected to complete their dissertations working on their own.

In exceptional circumstances (i.e. in cases where students need to be away to conduct research during the period April-June) it will be possible formally to request a revised supervision schedule facilitating further supervisorial feedback, subject to staff availability, beyond the date of 30th June. Such requests must be made by last week of Hilary Term via the Programme Coordinator.

Students are expected to be in Dublin during for the duration of the three academic terms (for dates see the University Almanack: http://www.tcd.ie/calendar/), unless permission is given by the Programme Coordinator.

3. Presentation

Students may be required to present an aspect of their dissertation research towards the end of semester 2 and make an appointment to consult with their supervisor in the week following their presentation. Further details will be given in class.

Assessment

A satisfactory assessment in the dissertation (50%) is mandatory for the award of the M.Phil.

Length

Not less than 12,000 words; not more than 15,000 words.

Presentation

The text of the dissertation should be word-processed, and printed on good quality A4 white paper. The type must be black and at least 12 point. Line spacing must be at one and a half or double spacing, though single spacing may be used for notes and quotations, bibliography etc. Images should be used as appropriate to the thesis topic. There should be margins of at least 1.5 inches on the left and 1 inch on the right of the page. Printing must be on one side only and the dissertation should be soft bound.

The presentation of the dissertation should follow a recognized style sheet. The Historical Journal style sheet is recommended as a default for all dissertations and can be consulted at Instructions for authors of accepted papers - http://journals.cambridge.org/action/displayMoreInfo?jid=HIS&type=ifc

Layout
The dissertation should start with a title page, followed by an abstract, and a table of contents, in that order. The table of contents should list the numbers and titles of chapters and appendices, and the relevant page numbers.

Title
The title of the dissertation must be written in full on the title page of each volume on the dissertation. The degree for which the dissertation has been submitted, the year, and the name of the candidate should be specified.

Abstract
An additional abstract must be submitted loose with each copy of the dissertation. This should contain the title of the dissertation and the author’s name, and a succinct summary of the aims and findings of the dissertation. It should be contained on one side of a single A4 page.

References, footnotes and bibliography
An approved reference system must be adopted, and once decided on by the student in consultation with their supervisor, used consistently throughout the dissertation. A reference must include the author’s name, title of text, year of publication, location of publication, and may also include publisher. Articles (book chapters) must include the title of the article (chapter) and the journal (book), and the relevant page numbers of the article (chapter).

Students should use footnotes briefly to qualify or elaborate a point made in the text, and to identify sources of facts/opinions referred to that originate in other material. The latter must be fully referenced, including page number of the text from which it came. Footnotes must be numbered consecutively, and should appear at the bottom of the page.

All references must be listed in a bibliography at the end of the dissertation, in strict alphabetical order by author.

Appendices
Appendices should be used for material that the student feels is essential to the dissertation, but which would interrupt the flow of the analysis if placed in the body of the text. Appendices can be identified numerically or alphabetically. These should follow the list of references, at the end of the dissertation.

If you have any queries about the appropriate form of footnotes or questions about presentation of bibliographies and any appendices, please direct those to your supervisor in the first instance.
Declaration
The dissertation must contain the following signed declaration immediately after the title page:

- This thesis is entirely my own work and has not been submitted as an exercise for a degree at this or any other university. Trinity College may lend or copy the dissertation upon request. This permission covers only single copies made for study purposes, subject to normal conditions of acknowledgement. Signed: [insert signature]

Submission
You are required to include the following when submitting your dissertation:

(i) 1 x Coursework submission form (Appendix 1)
   a. Module title = Dissertation
   b. Module code = HH7010
   c. Module co-ordinator = your dissertation supervisor
(ii) 2 x softbound copies of dissertation
(iii) 2 x loose abstracts
(iv) 1 x hardbound copy of dissertation
(v) 1 x Electronic submission to pghishum@tcd.ie

Students are required to submit the above to Room 3133, Arts Building by 5pm on 31st August. No extensions to this deadline will normally be granted.

HH7030 Remembering, reminding and forgetting: Public History, Cultural Heritage and the Shaping of the Past
Weighting: 10 ECTS
Contact hours: one 2-hour seminar per week (in first semester, internship constitutes second semester of this course)
Module Coordinator: Dr Georgina Laragy (laragyg@tcd.ie)
Teaching Staff: Members of Staff in the School of Histories and Humanities and staff from collaborating cultural institutions

This module takes place each week over both semesters. This module is team taught - initially from within the School and by staff in collaborating cultural institutions from mid-November onwards. It seeks to introduce students to the relationship between the scholarly study of history, the public understanding of the past, and the role of museums and galleries in these processes. It also explores the role of collectors and museums and their place in contemporary society, investigating also the meanings that can be attributed to objects. Aspects of curiosity and colonialism in the museum setting are touched upon, as well as matters of authenticity, conservation and display. The institutions have included in the past the NLI, NMI, NGI, Glasnevin Cemetery and Museum, Newstalk, DCLA, St Patrick’s Cathedral and Castletown House.

Learning outcomes
On successful completion of the module students should be able to:
- Understand the gestation of public history as a field
- Identify the tension between present-centred usable pasts and professional academic history
Interact with practitioners at cultural institutions
Formulate research questions for the purposes of essay writing
Engage critically with primary texts and secondary literature
Consider critically issues of historicity, authenticity and accuracy

Assessment
This module is assessed by a 3,500-5,000 word paper on an approved topic relating to the content of the module to be submitted by the end of Michaelmas Term Week 9 (25th October) as per the essay submission guidelines.

HH7031 Internship - Remembering, reminding and forgetting: practical experience
Weighting: 10 ECTS
Contact hours: one day per week (Hilary Term)
Module Coordinator: Dr Georgina Laragy (laragyg@tcd.ie)
Teaching Staff: Staff from collaborating cultural institutions

The internship in the Hilary term introduces students to practical work experience as encountered by specialists in one of the partner institutions. Each student will spend not less than 22 hours under the direction of a professional in one of the nominated cultural institutions, working on a pre-arranged project. The student may be expected to work as part of a small team or to undertake independent work. Each internship will also have a nominated TCD advisor to deal with potential disputes between student and external mentor, as well as provide the academic framework for the internship project. The assessment of these projects will be the responsibility of the TCD advisor.

Learning outcomes
On successful completion of the module students should be able to:

- Understand the day-to-day running of an organisation or institution engaged in cultural heritage and public history
- Formulate research questions for the purposes of writing an internship report
- Engage critically with primary texts and secondary literature
- Consider critically the role of an embedded intern in a cultural institution

Assessment
The course will be assessed by a 2,000 word report based on the internship to be submitted by the end of Revision Week 3 (17th May) as per the essay submission guidelines.

HI7066 Practitioner workshops
Weighting: 10 ECTS
Contact hours: 1.5 hrs per week (Hilary Term)
Module Coordinator: Dr Georgina Laragy (laragyg@tcd.ie)
Teaching Staff: Staff from collaborating cultural institutions

A series of weekly workshops will be held in the Hilary term, at which practitioners from the public history/heritage sector will be invited to talk informally to the class and reflect on their professional experience.
Previous guests include:
- Neil Jordan (Film Director)
- Rowan Gillespie (Sculptor)
- Catriona Crowe (NAI)
- Myles Dungan (The History Show)
- Brian Donovan (Eneclann)
- Sinead Gleeson (Arts Journalist)
- Vikky Evans-Hubbard (International Slavery Museum, Liverpool)

Attendance at these workshops is compulsory. Students will be expected to research each practitioner prior to the workshop each week.

Learning outcomes
On successful completion of the module students should be able to:
- Engage with practitioners working in the field
- Engage critically with primary texts and secondary literature
- Consider critically issues of historicity, authenticity and accuracy

Assessment
Each student may research career pathways in one of the fields represented by any of our visiting practitioners. These reports will be shared between all students at the end of the term and will help to serve as a resource for students as they think about employability in the sector.

The course will be assessed by one 2,000 word report to be submitted by the end of the last week of Hilary term (10th April) as per the essay submission guidelines.

Taught modules (optional elements)

The following modules are worth 10 ECTS and run for the duration of one semester. Students choose three taught modules from the below: two in Michaelmas Term and one in Hilary Term. Please make sure your options have been selected and that your blackboard record has you signed up for your selected modules.

All modules will be taught as a series of student-led discussion seminars. Guidance for reading and topics will be given in class.

Assignments
Each module requires the completion of assignments as directed by the lecturer. All assignments are compulsory. All assignments must be typed/word-processed and submitted by the end of the semester in which the Module has been taken. Students MUST keep a copy of all submitted assignments.

In all modules, including the dissertation, the passing grade is 50%.

Late submissions of written assignments must be accompanied by a late submission coversheet, clearly stating the reason for lateness.

Michaelmas Term

ID7010 Europe and its Identities: A Cultural History

Term / hours  Michaelmas / 22
ECTS 10
Coordinator  Dr Balázs Apor
(aporb@tcd.ie)
Lecturer(s)  Dr Balázs Apor

Module description

This module explores various aspects of the construction of Europe as an idea, a utopia and a political project as well as a form of identity. The main focus of the module will be on the construction of Europe as opposed to an imagined ‘Other’, perceived in cultural, geographic, ethnic and racial terms in different time periods over history. The module aims to present the dynamics of exclusion-inclusion practices, and to investigate the way such practices shaped the development of the idea and representation of Europe in European cultures.

Assessment

The module is assessed through a 3,500-5,000-word essay.

HH7011: Saving the past: contemporary issues in cultural heritage

Weighting: 10 ECTS
Contact hours: 2 hours per week (Michaelmas)
Module Coordinator: Dr Christine Morris (cmorris@tcd.ie)

This module explores the role of cultural heritage in the contemporary world. It asks why and in what ways the past matters to us now, and to what extent it can (and should) be ‘saved’ for the future. Drawing on case studies, the module looks at complex and challenging problems from multiple perspectives. These may include ethics and the past, identity politics and nationalism, the past as cultural and economic capital, war and destruction of heritage, looting and collecting, virtual cultural heritage.

Throughout the module, we will also collect and discuss any cultural heritage issues that are in the news - looking at how they are reported and represented in the popular media, by official reporting, and in the scholarly community – with the aim of creating a class blog.

Aims

- Introduce students to key contemporary debates in archaeology and cultural heritage globally, making use of selected case studies
- Engage with scholarly and popular debates about cultural heritage
- Reflect on how cultural heritage issues are shaped by their specific modern contexts (political, economic, ethical, ideological)
Learning Outcomes
On successful completion of the module students should be able to:

- Present a sound and sophisticated knowledge of major contemporary issues in archaeology and cultural heritage, making use of a wide range of international case studies.
- Evaluate critically specific cultural heritage issues within their contemporary political, economic, ethical and ideological contexts.
- Apply relevant methodologies and theoretical approaches to independent work.
- Communicate ideas and arguments effectively both in oral presentations and discussion, and in written work.

Assessment
This module is assessed by a 3,500-5,000 word essay on an approved topic relating to the content of the module to be submitted as per the essay submission guidelines.

HI7060: History, Memory and Commemoration
Weighting: 10 ECTS
Contact hours: 2 hours per week
Module Coordinator: Dr Joseph Clarke (clarkej1@tcd.ie)

This module seeks to analyse the way in which significant people and/or events have been, or are to be, commemorated in monuments, museums, and other forms. The culture and politics of commemoration (both today and in the past) will be considered, as well as tensions between public perceptions of the past and those advanced by professional historians. The module will focus on three selected themes drawn from a list including the French Revolution, the Great Famine, the Great War, the Easter Rising, and the Gandhi dynasty.

Learning Outcomes
On successful completion of the module students should be able to:

- Identify the context of commemoration of particular individuals and/or events.
- Review the role played by professional historians in the process of commemoration.
- Formulate research questions for the purposes of essay writing.
- Engage critically with primary texts and secondary literature.
- Consider critically issues of historicity, authenticity and accuracy.
- Evaluate the impact of specific monuments, museums or other forms of commemoration on public perceptions of the past.

Assessment
This module is assessed by a 3,500-5,000 word essay on an approved topic relating to the content of the module to be submitted as per the essay submission guidelines.

WS7054 Gender, Art and Identity
Weighting: 10 ECTS
Contact hours: 2 hours per week
Module Coordinator: Dr Catherine Lawless lawlessc@tcd.ie

This module aims to identify and analyse the formation of the canons and histories of western art with particular reference to gender, identity, and Irish art. The formation of the canon and its disruption and fragmentation through Feminist, Postcolonialist and other interventions will be examined and critical approaches to artworks – Irish and international – will be discussed.

Learning outcomes
On successful completion of the module students should be able to:
- Understand canon formation and its exclusions
- Critically engage with the writing of art’s histories
- Examine the role of gender in visual culture
- Apply theories of the gaze and its constructions to their own writing and research

Assessment
This module will be assessed by the submission of a term essay at the end of Michaelmas term. Essays should be between 3,500 and 5,000 words in length, excluding footnotes and bibliography. Term essays are due for submission by 5.00pm on the last Friday of Michaelmas term as per the essay submission guidelines.

HI7126 The Rise, Fall, and Recovery of the Irish Big House, c. 1700 – the Present’ – Dr Patrick Walsh

The ‘big house’ has long played an important role in the Irish social, cultural and political landscape. Often seen as either the epitome of the architectural and artistic achievements of Georgian Ireland or as the remnants of an oppressive colonial past the Irish country house continues to divide public opinion. This module traces the rise, fall, and recovery of the Irish country house over the last three centuries using these contested structures as a lens within which to view broader changes in Irish society, cultural identity and memory, and historiography. Beginning with the construction of the first Palladian mansions in the early eighteenth century the module will consider the form and function of these houses and how these changed over time. Attention will be paid to their economic, political and cultural contexts exploring how the country house and its attendant collections and landscapes can reveal much about the anxieties and accomplishments of the Irish Protestant Ascendancy. The module will then explore their nineteenth century experience questioning existing narratives of ‘decline and fall’ before engaging with the transformations wrought on the country house landscape in the twentieth century, first by revolution, civil war and adjustment to a new state and then public and political indifference. The final sessions will consider the remarkable recovery of the Irish country house in the late twentieth century and what this tells us about public policy, changing popular attitudes and the presentation of Ireland’s contested histories.
This module will involve analysis of case studies as well as broader engagement with a rapidly expanding interdisciplinary historiography. Students will also partake in a field trip to Castletown House, Co Kildare where the coordinator will bring his particular knowledge, expertise and contacts together to lead an interactive seminar.

HI7202: A World History of Communism

Coordinators: Molly Pucci, Katja Bruisch

10 ECTS

This module examines the history of communist movements, ideas, and states from a global perspective. It starts with the foundations of communist thought in the nineteenth century and covers key moments in the history of communism throughout the twentieth century, including the Russian revolution, Stalinism, the Spanish Civil War, the Second World War, Maoism and the Cultural Revolution, the Korean War, and revolutions in Latin America, asking why communist ideas had resonance in such different places at different times. Key themes include the relationship between war and revolution, the concept of world revolution, the politics of conspiracy, and the political philosophy of Vladimir Ilyich Lenin, Mao Zedog, Fidel Castro, and Che Guevara. Assessment: Essay (100%)

Hilary Term

HI 7068: From Parchment to Pixel: World History through historical maps and GIS

Weighting: 10 ECTS
Duration: Hilary Term, Weekly.
Contact hours: 2 hours per week
Module Coordinator: Dr Francis Ludlow (ludlowf@tcd.ie)

Parchment to Pixel: World History through Historical Maps and GIS
Maps are frequently underappreciated as historical sources, yet they provide a detailed and unique window into both human and natural history. Read critically, they can reveal the political, cultural, scientific and environmental knowledge and concerns of the mapmaker, his or her patrons, audience and broader societal milieu. In this module we will examine the many forms that maps have taken and the many purposes they served. We will trace their historical evolution from (often controversial) modern identifications of maps in prehistoric rock art and petroglyphs from Eurasia, Africa and the Americas, to the most recent mapping revolutions of the satellite era and digital mapping. Through this long period, we will examine the role that these and many other mapping revolutions played in enabling new interactions between places, peoples and ideas. As part of this, we will examine how mapping expanded the reach of nation states, as exemplified by the European discovery and domination of the Americas from the fifteenth century onwards, as well as other colonial enterprises. We will examine the related role of mapping in conflict, including the example of military and propagandistic mapping in World War II, leading us into a study of how and why maps have been deliberately created to mislead. The module will also provide a practical introduction to contemporary digital mapmaking, focusing upon how historical GIS (Geographical Information System) approaches are providing new ways to interrogate and represent world history.

Assessment: 100% essay or historical GIS project

Hi7172: Middle Ages in Film: Alterity, Identity and Imagination
Course Coordinator: Dr Peter Crooks

Module Overview

Most people, most of the time, never learn about the Middle Ages by reading academic history books, let alone primary sources. Even the few who pursue careers in medieval scholarship will almost certainly have first encountered the Middle Ages through images and interpretations in cinematic or fictionalised form.

More generally, the Middle Ages have been widely commodified by culture industries and fetishized in the discourse of modern identity politics. Given all this, students need to be equipped to deconstruct representations of the medieval past and to interrogate their own working assumptions about the Middle Ages imbibed from cinema. They also need to appreciate and value the qualities that make for a great work of historical imagination or reconstruction — qualities that cannot easily be replicated by the conventional methods of academic enquiry.

The specific concern in this module is with films that explore events and personalities with some basis in medieval source material, whether historical or legendary. (The distinction is with films that are purely fantastical.) Many of the greatest films ever made — not just history films, but films on any topic, in any country, in any language — are set in the Middle Ages. Eleven of these acclaimed films are the objects of critical appraisal in this module.

The objective is not to test the accuracy, in a narrow sense, of cinematic representations of the medieval past. Rather it is to explore three subthemes:

- Alterity: analysing and explaining the fascination of the Middle Ages and the ways in which difference has been presented, interpreted and re-interpreted.
- Identity: uncovering the ideological and propagandistic uses to which the medieval past has been put and how political agendas have shaped creative decision-making.
- Imagination: reflecting critically upon the challenge of authenticity and historical reconstruction.

Structure:

The module first introduces students to the problem of historical reconstruction, and the origins and development of ‘medievalism’ as a cultural phenomenon. It then proceeds to apply this knowledge by analysing the reception of the Middle Ages in twentieth- and twenty-first century cinema.

Method of Delivery:
The module will be taught through seminar discussions, each seminar examining a particular theme which intersects with a 'set' film or representative film-type which serves as an illustrative example. Students will arrange their own viewings. These viewings will be contextualised by reading primary sources in translation concerning the events or personalities in question as well as secondary sources on the post-medieval reception and appropriation of those same events.

As well as the 'set' films, students are encouraged to explore the genre more widely and to bring their own experiences and expertise to bear in class discussions.

Additional Modules
In consultation with the programme co-ordinator, students may also audit research skills or language modules according to their specific research needs. Modules in Latin are offered by the School of Histories and Humanities and the TCD Centre for Language and Communication Studies provides a variety of modern, mainly European, language courses at different levels of proficiency. For further details, see https://www.tcd.ie/Broad_Curriculum/language/

HI 7063: Consuming History: Media, Markets and the Past Weighting: 10 ECTS
Contact hours: 2 hours per week Module Coordinator: Dr Ciaran O’Neill (ciaran.oneill@tcd.ie)

Who sells history in the real world, and why? Who are the major players in the history market, what sells, and who makes money from it? History is a dominant field in publishing, in radio, in heritage tourism, and yet the major fields of public interest are relatively narrow.

The module will explore both consumer and content provider in an attempt to understand what the popular history market demands from writers and broadcasters, and how much of it is directed by public demand and market forces. Guest lecturers will include prominent broadcasters, publishers, and practitioners from new (and old) media.

Assessment
- 1 TV documentary pitch or radio script (1000 words), which will be peer-assessed and due in week 7.
- 1 essay (3500-5000 words) on an approved topic relating to the content of the module, due in week 12.
Plagiarism
The University considers plagiarism to be a major offence, and subject to the disciplinary procedures of the University. A central repository of information about Plagiarism and how to avoid it is hosted by the Library and is located at http://tcd-ie.libguides.com/plagiarism

It is a University requirement that all TCD students must complete the Online Tutorial on avoiding plagiarism ‘Ready, Steady, Write’, located at http://tcd-ie.libguides.com/plagiarism/ready-steady-write

The University’s full statement on Plagiarism for Postgraduates can be found in the University Calendar, Part III 1.32: http://tcd-ie.libguides.com/plagiarism/calendar

Calendar Statement on Plagiarism for Postgraduates - Part III, 1.32
1. General

It is clearly understood that all members of the academic community use and build on the work and ideas of others. It is commonly accepted also, however, that we build on the work and ideas of others in an open and explicit manner, and with due acknowledgement.

Plagiarism is the act of presenting the work or ideas of others as one’s own, without due acknowledgement.

Plagiarism can arise from deliberate actions and also through careless thinking and/or methodology. The offence lies not in the attitude or intention of the perpetrator, but in the action and in its consequences.

It is the responsibility of the author of any work to ensure that he/she does not commit plagiarism.

Plagiarism is considered to be academically fraudulent, and an offence against academic integrity that is subject to the disciplinary procedures of the University.

2. Examples of Plagiarism

Plagiarism can arise from actions such as:

(a) copying another student’s work;
(b) enlisting another person or persons to complete an assignment on the student’s behalf;
(c) procuring, whether with payment or otherwise, the work or ideas of another;
(d) quoting directly, without acknowledgment, from books, articles or other sources, either in printed, recorded or electronic format, including websites and social media;
(e) paraphrasing, without acknowledgment, the writings of other authors.

Examples (d) and (e) in particular can arise through careless thinking and/or methodology where students:

(i) fail to distinguish between their own ideas and those of others;
(ii) fail to take proper notes during preliminary research and therefore lose track of the sources from which the notes were drawn;

(iii) fail to distinguish between information which needs no acknowledgement because it is firmly in the public domain, and information which might be widely known, but which nevertheless requires some sort of acknowledgement;

(iv) come across a distinctive methodology or idea and fail to record its source.

All the above serve only as examples and are not exhaustive.

3. Plagiarism in the context of group work

Students should normally submit work done in co-operation with other students only when it is done with the full knowledge and permission of the lecturer concerned. Without this, submitting work which is the product of collusion with other students may be considered to be plagiarism.

When work is submitted as the result of a Group Project, it is the responsibility of all students in the Group to ensure, so far as is possible, that no work submitted by the group is plagiarised.

4. Self-Plagiarism

No work can normally be submitted for more than one assessment for credit. Resubmitting the same work for more than one assessment for credit is normally considered self-plagiarism.

5. Avoiding Plagiarism

Students should ensure the integrity of their work by seeking advice from their lecturers, tutor or supervisor on avoiding plagiarism. All schools and departments must include, in their handbooks or other literature given to students, guidelines on the appropriate methodology for the kind of work that students will be expected to undertake. In addition, a general set of guidelines for students on avoiding plagiarism is available at http://tcd-ie.libguides.com/plagiarism.

6. If plagiarism as referred to in paragraph (1) above is suspected, the Director of Teaching and Learning (Postgraduate) will arrange an informal meeting with the student, the student’s Supervisor and/or the academic staff member concerned, to put their suspicions to the student and give the student the opportunity to respond. Students may nominate a Graduate Students’ Union representative or PG advisor to accompany them to the meeting.

7. If the Director of Teaching and Learning (Postgraduate) forms the view that plagiarism has taken place, he/she must decide if the offence can be dealt with under the summary procedure set out below. In order for this summary procedure to be followed, all parties noted above must be in agreement. If the facts of the case are in dispute, or if the Director of Teaching and Learning (Postgraduate) feels that the penalties provided for under the summary procedure below are inappropriate given the circumstances of the case, he/she will refer the case directly to the Junior Dean, who will interview the student and may implement the procedures set out in Section 5 (Other General Regulations).

8. If the offence can be dealt with under the summary procedure, the Director of Teaching and Learning (Postgraduate) will recommend one of the following penalties:

(a) Level 1: Student receives an informal verbal warning. The piece of work in question is inadmissible. The student is required to rephrase and correctly reference all plagiarised elements. Other content should not be altered. The resubmitted work will be assessed and marked without penalty;
(b) Level 2: Student receives a formal written warning. The piece of work in question is inadmissible. The student is required to rephrase and correctly reference all plagiarised elements. Other content should not be altered. The resubmitted work will receive a reduced or capped mark depending on the seriousness/extent of plagiarism;
(c) Level 3: Student receives a formal written warning. The piece of work in question is inadmissible. There is no opportunity for resubmission.

9. Provided that the appropriate procedure has been followed and all parties in (6) above are in agreement with the proposed penalty, the Director of Teaching and Learning (Postgraduate) should in the case of a Level 1 offence, inform the Course Director and, where appropriate, the Course Office. In the case of a Level 2 or Level 3 offence, the Dean of Graduate Studies must be notified and requested to approve the recommended penalty. The Dean of Graduate Studies will inform the Junior Dean accordingly. The Junior Dean may nevertheless implement the procedures as set out in Section 5 (Other General Regulations).

10. If the case cannot normally be dealt with under summary procedures, it is deemed to be a Level 4 offence and will be referred directly to the Junior Dean. Nothing provided for under the summary procedure diminishes or prejudices the disciplinary powers of the Junior Dean under the 2010 Consolidated Statutes.
Assessment
The pass mark in all modules is 50%. To qualify for the award of the M.Phil., a student must achieve a credit-weighted average mark of at least 50% across the taught modules, and either pass taught modules amounting to 60 credits or pass taught modules amounting to 50 credits and achieve a minimum mark of 40% in any failed modules, and achieve a mark of at least 50% in the dissertation.

Students failing to pass taught modules may present for supplemental examination or re-submit required work within the duration of the course as specified in the course handbook.

In the calculation of the overall M.Phil. mark the weighted average mark for the taught components carries 40% and the mark for the dissertation carries 60%.

To qualify for the award of the M.Phil. with Distinction students must achieve a final overall mark for the course of at least 70% and a mark of at least 70% in the dissertation. A distinction cannot be awarded if a candidate has failed any credit during the period of study.

A student who successfully completes all other requirements but does not proceed to the dissertation stage or fails to achieve the required mark of 50% in the dissertation will be recommended for the award of the Postgraduate Diploma. The Postgraduate Diploma will not be awarded with Distinction.

Students who fail to pass taught modules may present for re-examination or resubmit work for re-assessment as instructed by the Programme Coordinator within the duration of the course. Re-assessment for modules failed in semester 1 (Michaelmas term) must be completed by 1st June; for modules failed in Semester 2 (Hilary term), by 31st August. Each module can only be re-assessed once.

Grade Descriptors

70+ – Distinction

Excellent work in every respect

- Understanding: authoritative, original, persuasive, showing mastery of methods or techniques used and clear knowledge of their limitations
- Selection and coverage: appropriate method or methods applied, with a discussion covering all significant aspects of the subject
- Analysis: coherent, logically developed and compelling discussion, with thoroughly detailed account of any practical work
- Presentation: flawless, or near flawless, language and syntax; professionally presented; references and bibliography consistently formatted using a recognized style
Marks Range:

- >85 = marks above 85 are only awarded in exceptional circumstances
- 80-85 = of publishable quality
- 75-79 = insightful, of publishable quality with revisions
- 70-74 = excellent grasp of the subject, high quality in all areas

50-69% – Pass

Coherent, logical argument and use of methods that shows understanding of key principles

- Understanding: a developed capacity to reason critically
- Selection and coverage: sound basis of knowledge in sources, scholarship and techniques
- Analysis: developed argument and account of practical work
- Presentation: adequate use of language and syntax; references and bibliography consistently formatted using a recognized style

Marks Range:

- 65-69 = approaching excellence in some areas; analysis and argument demonstrate a high level of critical reasoning and independent evaluation; may contain elements of originality; appropriate range of theoretical approaches and solid command of relevant methods and techniques; complex work and ideas clearly presented; effective use of language and syntax with few or no errors;
- 60-64 = well developed relevant argument and good use of methods but weaker in some areas; key terms used effectively; most important methods and techniques applied; concise and explicit argument, with coherent account of practical work
- 55-59 = approaching merit; satisfactory, appropriate and accurate but exhibiting significant shortcomings in one or more areas
- 50-54 = for the most part satisfactory, appropriate and accurate; argument may lack evidence of originality or full insight; analysis may demonstrate weaknesses in fluency, depth or persuasiveness

0-49% – Fail

Work exhibiting insufficient knowledge or understanding, superficial analysis and/or significant methodological weaknesses, unsatisfactory focus or scope

- Understanding: thinly-developed knowledge, understanding and/or methods
- Selection and coverage: scope may be too narrow or too broad, discussion unfocussed; omission of significant examples; limited success in applying relevant methods
- Analysis: argument not fully developed; account of practical work lacks analysis
- Presentation: may contain errors in use of language and syntax; formatting of references and bibliography may lack consistency

Marks Range:
- 40-49 = marginal fail, compensable in some cases (see assessment regulations); exhibits basic relevant knowledge, understandings, methodological and presentational competence but is unsatisfactory in one or more of these areas
- 30-39 = exhibits significant shortcomings in knowledge and command of methods; more descriptive than analytical; scope is too narrow or too broad; inclusion of irrelevant elements and/or omission of significant examples; failure to apply relevant methods and develop argument; presentational weaknesses and errors in use of language and syntax
- <30 = exhibits very little relevant knowledge; fundamentally flawed grasp of issues and methods; factual errors; poor presentation

Oral Examination
Where failure of a dissertation is contemplated graduate students are entitled to an oral examination. The candidate must be informed that the reason for the oral examination is that the examiners are contemplating failure of the dissertation. The following guidelines apply:

1) The process should begin with the student being informed by the Course Director that the examiners are contemplating failure of the dissertation and that the student may choose to defend it at an oral examination. There may be three potential outcomes: (i) pass on the basis of the student’s defence of the work (ii) pass on the basis of revisions or (iii) the dissertation fails.
2) The oral examination should be held prior to or during the examination board meeting.
3) Both markers of the thesis should be present and ideally also the external examiner if he/she is available.
4) The oral examination is chaired by the Director of Teaching and Learning (Postgraduate) or their nominee.

If it appears in the oral examination that the student can defend the thesis, and the examiners believe that it could be revised to the satisfaction of the examiners, the student may be given a period of 2 or 3 months to revise the dissertation, for which they will be allowed to re-register free of fees.
Part-time Pathway
Part-time students must pass taught modules carrying 40 credits, including the compulsory module Core Module Remembering, Reminding and Forgetting (20 credits), in their first year in order to progress to the second year, and pass taught modules carrying 20 credits in the second year and submit the dissertation by 31st August of the second year. Part-time students should discuss their pathway through the course with the course co-ordinator.

Distinctions, prizes and grants
A distinction for the M.Phil. shall require at least 70% in the dissertation and at least 70% in the final aggregated mark for the course.

For further information seek advice from the M.Phil. Co-ordinator.
