CLASSICS – Day-time courses

SC01 Greek and Roman Art and Architecture

There are a limited number of places available on this course. This lecture-only module is an introductory survey of the development and major artistic and technical achievements of Greek and Roman architecture, sculpture and painting. The course places art and architecture in its social, political and cultural context. It explores themes such as the representation of the human form, the use of narrative and mythology in art, and urbanization, and it looks at the works of individual artists. It traces the development of architectural forms, such as temples, theatres and Roman baths with attention to many of the iconic buildings and sites of the ancient world, including the Parthenon, Delphi and Olympia, the Colosseum, the Pantheon and Pompeii.

Lecturers: Dr Hazel Dodge
Fee: €165 per term.
Concession: 150 for the full year, or €75 per term.
Start Date: Wednesday 22 January 2020
Lectures per week: 2
Time and venue: Lecture 1: Wednesdays 10 – 11 a.m. Venue: Emmet Theatre (2037)
Lecture 2: Thursdays 2 – 3 p.m. Venue: Synge Theatre (2039)
Duration: A twelve-week term with a one week break (2nd – 6th March 2020).

SC02 Greek and Roman History

This lecture-only module provides an introductory survey of the history of the Greek and Roman world, from the Greek Archaic age (c.700 BC) to the death of Augustus in AD 14. The main trends and issues of this period will be explored including colonisation, imperialism, war, the Athenian invention of democracy, the rise of Alexander, and the emergence of Rome as a major power in the Mediterranean. There will also be discussion of the main historical sources.

Lecturers: Dr Shane Wallace; Dr Rebecca Usherwood
Fee: €165 per term.
Concession: €75 per term.
Start Date: Tuesday 21st January 2020.
Lectures per week: 1 two-hour lecture per week (equivalent to 2 lectures per week)
Time and venue: Tuesdays 9 - 11 a.m. Venue: Emmet Theatre (2037)
Duration: A twelve-week terms with a one week break (2nd – 6th March 2020).

SC03 Greek and Roman Mythology and Religion

What is myth? How do myths deal with fundamental human concerns about who we are and the world we live in? What is the relationship between myth and religion? Why did the Greeks and Romans worship many gods, believe in oracles, or perform animal sacrifice? This lecture-only module is an introduction to the major myths and religions of the classical world using the full range of primary source material: literary, artistic and archaeological. It explores the functions of myth within society and the various theories of myth. The first half of the course will focus on themes such as the creation of myths in the wider context of Near Eastern mythology, the character of the Olympian gods, heroes and their monstrous opponents, divine-human relations, and the major mythic cycles of the Trojan war, and the Atreus and Theban sagas. The second half of the course will explore the nature of Greek and Roman religion in its social context. It considers key elements of ritual action: sacrifice, rites of passage, festivals, as well as the diverse ancient beliefs on death and the afterlife and the role of mystery religions. This lecture-only course will be illustrated.

Lecturers: Dr Suzanne O’Neill
Fee: €85 per term
Concession: €45 per term
Start Date: Wednesday 22 January 2020.
Lectures per week: 1
Time and venue: Hilary Term: Wednesdays 3 – 4 p.m. Venue: TBC

CLASSICS – Evening lecture and language courses

SC04 From Rome to Byzantium: the transition from classical to early Byzantine world in the history, culture, literature and art of the 3rd to the 6th centuries AD

This course will run subject to sufficient numbers enrolling – there will be a limited number of places available. Did the Roman Empire really collapse? Was the transition from Classical civilization to late antiquity the end of an era? Was this decline caused by migrations and the advent of Christianity? In this course we will address these questions and more to explore the period between the third to the seventh century AD, which marked one of history’s great turning points and the transition from the ancient to the modern world, from pagan polytheism to Christianity, from Roman Empire to Medieval States. This dynamic world was populated by diverse people (the “barbarians”) who deeply influenced the culture, literature and art of the time. In our studies, we will travel to Constantinople and Ravenna to appreciate the artistic continuity with classical tradition and the new inspirations coming from the East, and we will meet fascinating personalities such as Empress Theodora, Justinian, and Julian ‘the Apostle’, as well as reading exciting sources such as Procopius, Ammianus Marcellinus, and Nonnus, to understand how much of the empire’s legacy lived on through the institutions of the church.

Lecturers: Dr Cosetta Cadau
Fee: €150 for the year
Concession: €75 for the course
Start Date: Monday 20 January 2020.
Lectures per week: 1
Time and venue: Mondays 7 – 8 p.m. Venue: Room 3126
Duration: A twelve-week term with a one week break (2nd – 6th March 2020).
SC05 Latin Language and Culture - Beginners (you may only sign up for this class if you have taken the first part)

This course will run subject to sufficient numbers enrolling – there will be a limited number of places available. This course offers a comprehensive appraisal of the language of ancient Rome. It also explores some central features of Latin literature. In this course we aim to examine the cultural context surrounding classical Latin and its successors. In the first term, those who have knowledge of Latin grammar will be able to review it at a leisurely pace, while people with little or no knowledge will have an opportunity to learn the basics of the Latin grammar. Aspects such as the origins and development of the Latin language, its power of communication, comparisons between formal and informal Latin in antiquity and beyond will also be considered. The second term will be devoted to a careful study of the Latin literary language through samplings of Latin authors, in both poetry and prose, ranging from antiquity to early modern times.

This course comprises of one class per week over two twelve-week terms commencing week beginning Monday 9th September 2019, and recommencing week beginning Monday 20 January 2020. There is a one-week break in each term, (21st – 25th October 2019 and 2nd – 6th March 2020) when no lectures will take place.

SA10 Painting and Sculpture in the Italian Renaissance

This module is an exploration of Italian art and its contexts from c.1300 to the late 1400s. The era is distinguished by a revival of interest in Italy's classical past and the emergence of Humanist philosophies; the impact of both on artistic production will be investigated. Traditional themes in art, such as religious subject matter, will be analysed as will the development of new secular themes including portraiture and classical mythology. The role of patronage, civic and private, the dissemination of Italian Renaissance ideas throughout Europe and the rising status of the artist will be considered and formal issues of style, art processes and production will figure prominently.

SA11 Contemporary Art in Context, 1960-2020

This module explores some of the seismic changes in art practice that have taken place since 1960. Focusing on particular contemporary artists’ work as well as upon certain seminal exhibitions, the module will provide a wide overview of art in this period. Shifts in artists’ (and curators’) practices since 1960 have led to a vast expansion of the parameters of what constitutes an artwork. This module traces the evolution of contemporary art, initially conceived as a series of ‘movements’ – from Minimalism and Pop to Conceptualism – leading to the proliferation of approaches and materials that artists employ today. We will look at the development of new forms and formats including performance art, lens-based media, installation, participatory and socially-engaged practices, institutional critique, and activist art. We will also examine how the infrastructures of the art world – its institutions and exhibiting formats – have informed the way we view and think about contemporary art: the art school, the biennial, the white cube, the auction house, the art fair, and the art market. As well as exploring the work of particular artists and exhibition formats, we will focus upon certain critical debates that have shaped how art is received and valued, including the ‘crisis of criticism’, the curatorial turn, the pedagogical turn, and the question of ‘relational aesthetics’. Particular critical texts will be used to prompt questions about the rhetoric, the politics, and the limitations of contemporary art.

SA13 Arts of Japan

This lecture-only module will examine cultural highpoints in the arts of Japan from the fourteenth to the nineteenth centuries. Artefacts in all media – painting, ceramics, lacquer and textiles – will be examined in the context of the influence of China on Japan, the creation of the Shogun Court, the rise of the merchant classes and the establishment of the pleasure districts in burgeoning Tokyo. Particular attention will be paid to lacquer ware created for the domestic and European market, the arts associated with the tea ceremony and traditional Japanese theatre. Themes of Japonisme will be explored, particularly in nineteenth century Ireland as Japan emerged after 250 years of self-imposed isolation from the outside world.

HISTORY – HILARY TERM ONLY (Commencing January 2020)

SA06 Europe 1500-1800: Power and Culture

This module explores the political and cultural history of Europe during the early modern period. It analyses the efforts of reformers to revive their churches and societies during the sixteenth century. It then examines the legacy of these reform movements, and considers how cultural divisions as well as competition for power led to prolonged periods of conflict within states and between states during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. This module then charts the emergence during the eighteenth century of new ways of thinking about private life and popular culture and of new ideas about science, society and the self of the Enlightenment. Finally, it explores how these ideas contributed to political crisis following the French Revolution.

SA08 Life In Modern Ireland

What do we mean by modern Ireland? Where is modern Ireland and when did it begin? Having broached these questions, this course will investigate what life was like on the island of Ireland across the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Reflecting the increased focus on social and cultural themes in Irish historiography, this course addresses the ways in which historians are tackling a broad range of societal questions. What characterised peoples’ family, working and social lives? How did people interact with the apparatus of the state and of religious bodies? How did the evolution of media affect daily life? What forces and ideas shaped the provision of education and welfare? What impact did emigration have on both host and home societies? Key to the course is an understanding of what differentiated experiences; how did gender, class, geography and moral/status hierarchies of different kinds shape individual lives? It will also place the social history of Ireland in comparative and global contexts, in order to question ideas of Irish insularity and exceptionalism.

Fee: €150 for the course
Concession: €75 for the course
Start Date: Wednesday 22 January 2020
Lectures per week: 2
Time and venue:
   Lecture 1: Wednesdays 12 – 1 p.m. Venue: Synge Theatre (2039)

SA09 War and Peace in Modern Europe

In this module, we discuss how Europe was defined and redefined through war, military occupation, civil conflicts, and peace agreements in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Drawing on examples of various—through often interrelated—conflicts, we discuss several major questions: How did international and civil conflicts shape European culture and politics? Why was the twentieth century so violent? How did Europe become divided into “right” and “left,” and “East” and “West”? How are these conflicts and political extremes remembered or forgotten today? Comparing writings and films from across the continent, including Britain, Poland, Spain, Yugoslavia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Germany, we ask how the map of the continent has changed over the past century and whether it is possible to write a single history of Europe.

Lecturers: Dr Molly Pucci; Dr Peter Houlihan

CENTRE FOR GENDER AND WOMEN’S STUDY – HILARY TERM ONLY

CGWS01 Gender: History, Culture and Representation

‘The story is no longer about the things that have happened to women and men and how they have reacted to them; instead it is about how the subjective and collective meanings of women and men as categories of identity have been constructed.’ (Joan Scott, Gender and the Politics of History, New York, 1998, p.6). This lecture-only module will examine the histories and representations of gender, seeking to understand how gender is constructed by societies, institutions and individuals, through the critical analysis of texts, works of art and public actions. Gender, its role, its construction and its historiography will be brought together by scholars across the school in an interdisciplinary module. The operation of gender ‘as a tool of analysis’ will be examined in histories of the body, sexuality, medicine, religion, politics, institutions and representations in a variety of texts and contexts which will show the inherent instability and elusive nature of many gendered identities.

SO01 Flash Points in History

How did the abduction of Helen lead to the Siege of Troy? How did the assassination of Franz Ferdinand spark a World War? How did the refusal of Rosa Parks to give up her seat inspire Civil Rights? This series of lectures explores 'flash points' across the sweep of world history, from the ancient world to the twentieth century. A flash point originally refers to the moment when volatile materials take fire after an initial ignition. In history, flash points often take contemporaries — or at least those wielding power — completely by surprise. The flash point might be an event, a confrontation, or a smouldering social issue that suddenly escalates rapidly into a major conflict leading to rapid political or social change.

SO02 Introduction to Irish Family History (you may only sign up for this class if you have taken the first part)

Family History isn’t just about the past: learning about our origins allows people to get down to the granular details of our ancestors’ lives. It enables people to construct their own family narrative and their personal identity. This lecture-only module is taught through a series of eight lectures per term over two terms by Fiona Fitzsimons & Brian Donovan of the Irish Family History Centre (Eneclann). The course covers a broad sweep of Irish history (1650s to 1950s), and is deeply rooted in the sources. The focus is on the records generated by churches, central and local government, enterprises, families and individuals; exploring what section of the Irish population is documented in these records, and how to interpret the evidence. Where record collections were destroyed, do any collateral records survive that contain relevant information?

The fee includes free access to the largest Irish collection online, www.Findmypast.ie as well as free access to EPIC and the Irish Family History Centre in CHQ. It will also provide support for all participants to construct a simple family history portfolio over sixteen weeks, including creating a family profile; research to collect documentary evidence; building a family tree; and writing a simple report.

Please note: This is a lecture-only course and does not include access to computers on campus. Participants must have access to their own computers at home for follow up clinics and research.

School of Histories and Humanities
SO03 Irish Family History: Intermediate Level (you may only sign up for this class if you have taken the first part)

Building on the theoretical foundations of the first year, we begin to move into experiential learning with the option of project work in term 2. We explore the Irish diaspora in all its aspects (military, mercantile, civilian, political and criminal exiles and convicts, adventurers, orphans) anywhere they went, and where sources survive, in Irish and overseas archives. In term two we will turn a spotlight on demographic groups that are more challenging to trace: finding women in the sources; researching Irish Travellers before 1950; and children in care 1840s to 1952. There will be a continuing emphasis on the appropriate methodology to use in family and social history, for a successful research outcome. Please note: This is a lecture-only course and does not include access to computers on campus. Participants must have access to their own computers at home for follow up clinics and research.
